

During pre- and post-season on the Göta Canal, you travel together with other boats according to a fixed itinerary. A lock keeper follows you throughout your journey to open locks and bridges and assists you with any questions.

Larger convoys are divided into smaller groups based on boat types and size by the lock keepers in charge. The groups travel in succession. Therefore, please note that the specified arrival times are approximate, and may vary depending on weather conditions, bridge openings and other traffic. Lunch breaks are held at times agreed upon between the lock keeper and the members of the convoy.

The Göta Canal Skipper's Guide contains information on guest harbours, locks, bridges, fuelling stations and more.
